

Must I Keep Paying the Recommended Credit Reporting Site Every Month?

If you need to know if you have to keep paying for your credit monitoring site month after month, this is the article for you!

We understand that you're trying to reduce excessive expenditures, and you're just asking if it is a requirement.

Good question.

If you're doing credit repair, then you should keep your credit monitoring active since it updates every 30 days.

However, if you're not currently doing credit repair, then you don't need to keep the credit reporting site active every month - you can get a free report once a year at annualcreditreport.com.
