

How Long Does the Credit Repair Process Take Before I See Results?

If you're looking for a timeframe on when you'll see negative accounts removed during the credit repair process, then this article is for you!

Results depend on the specific derogatory account.

A minimum of 30 - 40 days is needed to remove collections and charge-offs.

A minimum of 90 days is needed for public records, medical bills, and repossessions.

It can take up to 30 - 40 days for inquiries to be removed from your report.

Still need help? Visit Accelerator Week 1 DIY Credit Repair

Tags: Credit repair results, Results from doing credit repair, When does derogatory items remove, Credit repair timeframe, What's the timing for credit repair improvement, How long before credit is improved