

Will I be Contacted by Any Creditor or Any of the Three Credit Bureaus?

If you've sent out dispute letters and are seeking to know if any creditors or credit bureaus will contact you, then this article is for you!

Yes, you will be contacted.

You will and you should expect to receive correspondence via mail from creditors and/or credit bureaus you've contacted regarding the results of your disputes.

DO NOT respond to creditors or to the credit bureaus correspondence unless the correspondence states that your disputes have not been processed due to missing or illegible documents needed.

In that case, submit legible or missing copies to the creditor or the credit bureaus.

Still need help? Visit Accelerator Week 1 DIY Credit Repair

Related Article

*If I Receive a Call From a Bureau or Creditor. What Do I Do?*

Tags: Creditor contacts, Credit Bureaus contacted me, What to do when creditor calls, What to do when Bureau calls, How to respond to a creditor's call, How to handle credit bureaus phone calls, Should I answer the phone for a creditor, Does a creditor have a right to call me, Does the bureau contact us